Lara Products

- Types of Squat toilets

The water absorption coefficient of this product is one of the important points in purchasing; if the water absorption coefficient is high, it causes an accumulation of germs and this may lead to an unpleasant odor. Lara Trading company pays full attention to all of these points; thereby, the company uses glazed material for toilets and its typical dimensions are 595×400 mm.

• Types of toilets

These products are different based on their size, appearance, durability, strength, discharge method, etc. Toilets are usually between 53 and 78 cm long and less than 50 cm long.

• Types of standing toilets

This type of toilet is suitable for men's use and is mostly used in public places. This product is popular due to the convenience of cleaning, consuming, optimal water consumption, lack of body connection with the toilet, etc.

• Types of washbasins

- Edgeless washbasin (Subsurface): This type of sink is located inside of the cabinet and its surface, has a beautiful view, makes it cleaner.
- Rimmed washbasin: The edges of this washbasin are designed in both thick and thin forms and have a very stylish model among all types of washbasins. This product has a relatively easy installation and is more economically affordable.
- Washbasin with pedestal: In the absence of the possibility of built-in piping, this washbasin is the best way to cover them.

- Cabinet washbasin: This product has a great space for storing and keeping the required bathroom appliances and is very popular.
- Wall-mounted washbasin: it could be installed without the need for cabinets, which makes the facade look bigger.
- Small Slope washbasin: This type of sink appearance is based on modern designs and occupies the least space compared to all other types of washbasins.
- Embossed edge washbasin: This model of sink is suitable for cabinets with low depth and width and has an excellent appearance on wooden cabinets.

• Types of Shower

Different types of showers fascinate customer attention based on their different criteria. For example, one of these criteria is the amount of water consumption that varies in different showers. Fixed shower, rain-maker shower, hand shower, ceiling shower, massager shower, light-lit shower, etc. It is one of the different types of this product and each has its fans.

- Shower cabin

The shower cabin divides the interior of the bathroom and creates a modern and stylish atmosphere in the bathroom.

- Closed-rimmed Squat toilet

The drainage channel is closed so it has many specific distanced holes; after entering the channel, water circles and then comes out of those holes steadily to wash more hygienically.

- Open-rimmed Squat toilet

It has a simpler type of drainage channel in squat toilets, which mostly is used in older squat toilets, and has an open channel, without any holes, so then the water flows to the depth of the bowl immediately after entering the drainage channel.
